LIVING-LEARNING PROGRAMS

Why join a Living-Learning Program?

Living Learning Programs connect students with communities that cater specifically to their academic, social, and personal needs. LLPs make your college experience unique, putting your interests and identities at the core of campus life.

Each program has faculty and staff dedicated to working with students in the community, and many have spaces and opportunities designed specifically for their needs. On average, students that participate in LLPs receive less student conduct referrals, get higher GPAs, and report a greater sense of belonging.
